MARBLE

La particolare "struttura a segni di pioggia" nella pietra, le sottili incisioni e le crepe incrociate, sono in realtà i segni dell'infiltrazione dell'acqua di scioglimento dei ghiacciai. Questa naturale "estetica asimmetrica" rende ogni pietra un esemplare geologico unico.

Casaferro®
Porcelain. Elegance. Sustainability

The unique "rain mark structure" in the stone, with fine indentations and interlaced cracks, is actually the mark of the infiltration of glacial meltwater. This natural "asymmetric aesthetics" makes each stone a unique geological specimen.

The inspiration of Brescia products can be traced back to Breccia Pontificia, a high-end natural stone from Italy, which is often used to decorate luxurious buildings such as churches and palaces.

Casaferro transforms this natural texture into an aesthetic symbol, matching it with a specific mineral background to form a "vein of time."

The touch can highly restore the real texture of natural stone and present the "breathing" of marble, as if the mountains and years of Brescia are solidified on the tiles.
